BUSINESS MEN'S PIC-NIC

Will Be Held at Hecla Park Thursday August 18.

COMMITTEE MEETING

Was Held at the Fallon House, Lock Haven, Monday Evening—Splendidly Entertained by Mr. Frank Warfield.

A MOST ENTHUSIASTIC GATHERING.

If an enthusiastic beginning counts for anything the coming Business Men's Picnic to be held at Hecla Park on Thursday, August 18 will be a great success. The gathering held by the committee of Business Men at the Fallon House, Lock Haven, Monday afternoon was one of the best attended and most enjoyable ever held by the Association.

The Bellefonte contingency left here on the 2:30 train over the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania and the thermometer standing at 95 in the shade naturally made it a shirt waist bunch. All the windows in the cars were open and the ride down through the beautiful Nittany Valley was pleasant in spite of the heat. In the party from Bellefonte were Frank Warfield, general passenger agent of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania; J. Calvin Meyer, secretary of the committee, J. Will Conley, A. C. Mingle, Hammond Sechler, John D. Sourbeck, Hard P. Harris, Phil Foster and Earle C. Tuten. At Salona Burgess W. Harrison Walker joined the crowd and at Mackeyville T. J. Smull, the postmaster, who never fails to attend and takes a great interest in the meetings, was picked up. At the Fallon House, Thomas H. Harter was waiting to join the bunch. It was a jolly crowd that gathered at 5 o'clock in the parlors of the Fallon House along the banks of the Susquehanna to discuss a Business Men's picnic.

Clinton county was represented by G. W. Fredericks, Sheriff Torrence Shearer, Druggist George W. Mason, ex-city treasurer Joseph Habersroh, Mayor John T. Cupper, George M. Gearhart, Geo. W. McDonald (just back from St. Louis) P. P. Rittman, the laundryman; D. I. McNaul, of the Democrat, Frank Kinsloe, of the Express, C. H. Bressler, of the Times, all of Lock Haven; D. H. Stoner, Mill Hall; Hayes Stewart, Island; Hon. Wm. T. Young, of Farrandsville, ex-member of the assembly. A jolly whole-souled set of fellows they were and the best of feeling prevailed.

The meeting was called to order by President Rittman and the way things went through, engineered by Cal Meyer and Will Conley, made you think of a Centre county political convention.

Each one had their little slip of paper and when the proper time came they said their little piece. The only thing out of the ordinary was Jonnie Sourbeck with an eye to business trying to have the next committee meeting held at both the Bush House and Brockerhoff House, but it would not work.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with and the following officers elected for the ensuing year: President, P. P. Rittman; Vice President, A. C. Mingle; Secretary, J. C. Meyer; Treasurer G. W. Fredericke.

The question of holding the pic-nic this year was decided unanimously in the affirmative. Mr. Sourbeck moved seconded by Burgess Walker that the picnic be held at Hecla Park, Thursday August 18 and the motion carried.

The following committees were then selected:

Finance—Hammond Sechler, John M. Bullock, T. J. Smull, Philip D. Foster, J. H. Rothrock.

Printing—John I. Olewine, G. W. Fredericks.

Amusement—John D. Sourbeck, George Gearhart, Sidney Krumrine Geo. McDonald.

Closing—D. I. McNaul, J. C. McCloskey, Thomas H. Harter and Earle C. Tuten.

Management—J. C. Meyer, J. Will Conley, G. W. Mason.

Music—P. P. Rittman, George R. Meek and Hard P. Harris.

Speakers—John T. Cupper and W. Harrison Walker.

The committee then adjourned to meet at the Brockerhoff House, Bellefonte Monday August 1 at 6:30 p. m.

After partaking of a splendid dinner and extending a vote of thanks to Mr. Warfield for his generous entertainment of the committee, the visitors were taken in hand by the Lock Haven people and show around the city, They visited Mason's drug store where they were treated to cigars and "Sody water" and afterwards Torrence Shearer took them through Clinton county's bastile. They found the jail very small and old fashioned but as clean and neat as a new pin and perfectly ventilated. The visitors had the pleasure of meeting the sheriff's wife, Mrs. Shearer and found her a very pleasant lady indeed.

A delightful trolley ride in the cool of the evening brought the party to Mill Hall where they took the night train for home vowing they would not care if Business Men's picnic came once a month.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE.

Historic Old Academy Falls a Prey to Fire Fiend.

The Bellefonte Academy building an historic old land mark of the town had a narrow escape from total destruction by fire Tuesday morning. As it is the roof and third story are almost entirely burned away and the interior is badly damaged by fire, water and smoke. The family residence which is entirely separated from the school building proper escaped without injury.

The fire was discovered about 7 o'clock in the tower which is centrally located, of the main building. An alarm was turned in and the fire companies were soon on the scene. The Academy consists of the main building in the center and two wings on either end. The first and second stories are built of stone but the third which was only added a few years ago was of frame. The fire spread with great rapidity and soon the entire roof was ablaze and it looked as if nothing could save the building from total destruction. The fire companies worked valiantly and by half past eight they had the fire under control and all danger was past.

No one was at home when the fire broke out except Mrs. James R. Hughes and Miss Helen Overton. Rev. Hughes had gone to the country for the day and Prof. James R. Hughes was transacting business in Williamsport.

The origin of the fire is believed to be due to the electric light wires which enter the building through the tower. The theory is that Monday evening during the heavy thunder storm the lightning struck the wires and passed into the tower setting it on fire. That being the case the fire smouldered all night breaking out Tuesday morning.

The loss will be a very heavy one and hard to estimate at this writing. The entire three floors were furnished. The first floor contained the recitation rooms, library and art rooms. The second floor contained recitation rooms, study rooms, book rooms, bed rooms etc. The third floor contained bed rooms, bath rooms etc, All the furniture was damaged more or less, although of course a great deal of it can be saved. The building was drenched with water from top to bottom.

The loss is estimated anywhere from seven to ten thousand dollars, fully insured in the agencies of Wm. B. Rankin, Frederick K. Foster, Wm Burnside, S. E. Goss and others.

The board of trustees will, as soon as the insurance adjusters are through, commence to repair the building and put it back in better shape than ever. It is thought this can be accomplished so as to open the school for the fall term September 15.

Rev. Hughes tells us that this is the first fire in the history of the school. The main building was erected in 1805 and is therefore almost ready to celebrate its 100th anniversary. It is fortunate the fire occurred during the vacation period.

—Rev. A. S. Carver, principal of the Glen Rose Collegiate Institute, located at Glen Rose, Texas, delivered two excellent sermons in the Milesburg Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Carver has been for the past twenty years engaged in Missionary work in Texas, under the direction of the Presbyterian Home Missionary Board, and through his untiring labor many Presbyterian churches have been organized and the Collegiate Institute has become one of the foremost colleges of the southwest. The Institute is a religious institution designed for the preparation of young men for the ministry.

THE BELLEFONTE ACADEMY

A Timely Word In Regard to its Re-Building.

A WONDERFUL HISTORY

One of the Oldest Educational Institutions in the State—Will Soon Celebrate its 100th Anniversary.

SHOULD BE EQUIPPED UP-TO-DATE

The main building of the Academy has been partially destroyed by fire. The loss is practically covered by insurance and the building may be repaired in its former condition without much additional expense. Will such a restoration be satisfactory to the citizens of our town and to the many alumni of this famous and venerable institution?

In the fall of 1797, when James Harris and James Dunlop purchased the tract of land upon which they laid out the Town of Bellefonte, they planned for the future, setting aside ground for the buildings of the new county about to be erected, laying out a public square and a graveyard, and reserving the summit of the hill overlooking the beautiful spring for an academy. These early pioneers had good hopes and bright visions for the future years.

In the spring of 1800 the act was passed erecting Centre County. The 9th section whereof appoints trustees for the county, directing them to receive certain moneys and obligations which Harris and Dunlop had agreed to set aside for their benefit, one-half of which was to be invested in some productive fund for the support of an academy or public school in said county. The methods by which the proprietors of the town had persuaded those in authority to provide for this school would make a story well worth telling, but the result is seen in this and later legislative enactments and in a deed to the trustees of Centre County, dated on June 26th of the same year, by which the public square, a tract upon which the county buildings now stand, and one-half of the town lots "for and in consideration of the Site of Justice being fixed at Bellefonte," were conveyed. "for the uses and purposes of the 9th section of the act erecting Centre County."

On the 8th of January 1805 another act of assembly, referring to the said 9th section of the former act, recites in its preamble

> "as it appears to be the wish and desire of the grantors of the lots and lands aforesaid, as well as of a number of inhabitants of Centre County, that an academy may be established in the Town of Bellefonte and that the funds aforementioned may be transferred to trustees, who may be appointed to superintend said institution."

This act establishes in the Town of Bellefonte an academy "for the education of youth in the useful arts, sciences, and literature, by the name, style and title of "Bellefonte Academy." It also appoints twenty five trustees, six of whom were from Bellefonte and the remainder from the townships of Potter, Haines, Miles, Ferguson, Halfmoon, Patton, Spring, Centre and Bald Eagle, giving them corporate powers and full control as such trustees over the Academy and its management.

Few if any institutions of learning in central Pennsylvania have had such a history. Of the many towns in this section none has such cause for pride in the results which have been attained by the educational advantages which our Academy has given the youth of the town and neighborhood. At the outset the Academy had an excellent start, for the times in which it was organized, and a legislative appropriation of two thousand dollars was made in 1806, conditioned upon the free education of six charity scholars. Nevertheless, in the following years, probably after the death of the original donors, public interest in the school seemed to have waned and for many years it struggled along on a very slim financial basis, until the late J. D. Shugert, a worthy descendant of one of the original owners of the town, together with other progressive citizens, raised sufficient funds to repair the old buildings and to put the Academy on a fair footing.

During the last twenty-five years or more, and even when popular interest in the institution seemed to be at the lowest ebb Rev. James P. Hughes and his son, James R., have been doing a work for the young people who have attended the Academy which it will be impossible to measure. Handicapped by delapidated buildings and inadequate equipment, they have built up the "School in the Mountains," as it has long been termed, until, notwithstanding the difficulties with which they contended, the Academy has grown to a wonderful extent. Its growth, however, has been almost solely in educational directions, with the exception of a few improvements which the trustees have made from the very limited funds at their command. Now is the time, when extensive repairs must be made, for the remodelling of the main building as its requirements demand, for equiping its school rooms, laboratories, etc., in an up-to-date manner, and for general improvement of the grounds surrounding the buildings.

The 8th of January next is the one hundredth anniversary of the incorporation of the Academy. 1905 is its centennial year. Why not rebuild the Academy as it should have been built years ago and improve its surroundings to such an extent that our citizens may feel as proud of the present Academy as they should feel of its past.

WATER ORDINANCE APPROVED.

Burgess Walker Sent Message to Council Approving the Ordinance and it Becomes a Law.

The ordinance passed by council regulating the boro Water Department was approved by the Burgess in the following message sent to council Monday night.

BELLEFONTE, PA., July 15th 1904.

TO THE TOWN COUNCIL OF BELLEFONTE BOROUGH.

Gentlemen:—I have approved the Ordinance "Providing for the maintenance and regulation of the water supply of the Borough; the assessment and collection of tax for the use of the water supplied by the Borough; the placing of meters, and the prescribing of penalties for violation thereof."

In the first place I desire to congratulate the Council as well as the people on the passage of this long-needed Ordinance. The water plant has been in existence for many years; has cost the tax payers of the Borough vast sums of money for its successful operation; is worth to them more than can be calculated in dollars and cents, and up to this time there were practically no rules, regulations, or Ordinances for its government, or prescribing the assessment and collection of a tax for the use of said water supplied by the Borough. For the first time therefore in the history of the Borough are the powers and duties of the Committee, as well as the Water Sup't, defined.

So far as the ordinance is concerned it is without question an exceptionally good one. There are many important features in said ordinance, and it should be the pleasure of the Council, as it is its duty, to see that they are carried out and enforced especially those relating to the Superintendent. He, by virtue of his position, is supposed to know all about the plant, what should be done to keep it in good first class running order, as well as the value and location of all supplies, material, and pipe, old or new. The Council should insist that he shall make his reports as required. It is the duty of Council to supply all necessary books, etc., for these reports, and they should secure them at an early date.

The provisions made for the assessment and collection of the tax for the use of the water supplied by the Borough are both wise and timely, but to make them effective and reap full results, they must of course be enforced. It is not stating it too broadly to say that this work has in past years been done in a very uncertain and irregular way, and as a consequence about one-third, perhaps a little more, of the tax levied for the support of the water plant, taking one year with another was never collected. This simply increased the burden of those that did pay.

The provisions made in this Ordinance are ample to compel the collection of this tax, and it is to be hoped that in the future all the people of the Borough, in fact everyone upon whom any duty is enjoined under the several sections therein relating to the levy and collection of the tax for the use of water supplied by the Borough, will perform it with promptness and vigor.

The action of the Council in passing the Ordinance was purely in the interest of the public and should be commended.

Very respectfully submitted,

W. HARRISON WALKER.
Burgess.

WONDERS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR

Many Strange Sights to Be Seen at That Place.

JUST A FEW OF THEM

Outlined for the Readers of This Paper by Our Correspondent at St. Louis.

A VERY INTERESTING LETTER

There are so many wonderful things on exhibition at the Fair that one scarcely knows where to begin in telling of them. One of the most wonderful is that of the largest pipe organ in the world, which is the main exhibit in Festival Hall, the central feature of the Cascades. The organ has 145 stops, and 10,000 pipes, and has been performed upon since the opening of the Fair, by some of the most celebrated players of the world. Every day at 11:30 a. m., a concert is given in Festival Hall and thousands listen to strains of music from the largest organ that has ever yet been built.

Alabama's exhibit in the Mines and Metalingy building is an iron statue of Vulcan 56ft. high, weighing 10,000 lbs., and erected at a cost of $20,000. In the same building is a statue of Lot's wife in Rock Salt, and one of Mephistopholes in Sulphur. In the palace of Agriculture is a statue of King Cotton, 50ft. high.

Queen Victoria's jubilee presents, which are on exhibition in the Hall of Congresses, attract a great deal of attention.

Washington's sword and eye-glass, a cane used by Benjamin Franklin, and Lincoln's private car, in which his body, after his death, was conveyed to Springfield for burial, are among the interesting exhibits.

A turquoise mine, a shoe and hat factory, a silk weaving machine, a Pennsylvania coal-breaker and a coal-mine all in operation daily attract the attention of thousands. A silver nugget from Idaho, weighing ten tons, a wireless telegraph in operation, the manufacture of nitrogen from the air, speech transmitted via electric light rays, a giant locomotive going at full speed and yet remaining stationary are all wonders of the present day.

The naval exhibit that of minature battleships firing upon each other, and the explosion of mines in the water, is an excellent one.

The Boer exhibit, which is a reproduction of the battle of Colenso, fought by the Boers and British, is fine in its way and the noise of battle can be heard for several miles.

The stadium, which has a seating capacity of 27,000 persons, and where one may witness the revival of the Olympic games of Ancient Greece, is the scene of much shouting and general confusion during an exhibition.

The U. S. life-saving exhibit is an interesting one to those who have never had the opportunity of witnessing a rescue on the lakes or ocean. The life-boat that turns entirely over in the water, the life-line and breeches buoy, are each day put in operation for the general instruction of the public. Although, for a time, excitement runs high, when it seems the man who is paid to drown, will surely be lost before the life-savers can possibly reach him, all one needs to remember is that it is much harder to drown than to keep from it, in the few feet of water the lake contains.

The life-savers certainly have things down to a fine point in the way of rescue. And no exhibit on the grounds draws more of a crowd than this, in which brave men show, how in time of peril, they take their lives in their own hands, to save those who are in danger.

Death Follows Fall.

E. T. Letzinger, died at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Williamsport hospital. He was a well known Montoursville printer. About two weeks ago when going to his camp near the river, having been at Montoursville for provisions, he tripped and fell from a trestle in the darkness and lay helpless until missed by a companion who preceded him and later discovered him in his unfortunate plight. His back was broken by his fall. Letzinger at one time worked in the Republican office at his place.

THREE HAVE PASSED BEYOND.

Beautiful Memorial Services Held for Gregg Post Rooms.

On Sunday afternoon a memorial service was held in the Gregg Post Rooms in the Harris Block on High street, the large room was comfortably filled with old soldiers, representative citizens of the town, and relatives of the deceased in whose memory these services were held.

The Post opened promptly at 3:30 without ceremony the officers in uniform, and sentinels properly stationed. The altar was covered with the National flag, draped in black and white and ornamented with flowers. The chairs suitably draped with the names of George A. Bayard, Lott Struble, and John L. Kurtz were placed between the Commanders chair and the altar.

The beautiful memorial ritual which is used on these occasions was led by the Post Commander, Col. Emanuel Noll, who called upon Dr. William Laurie to make the opening prayer. In this ritual he record of each comrade was given who had passed beyond the veil during the past year.

The first being of Col. George A. Bayard, whose untimely death occurred the 7th day of last July.

The second was of John L. Kurtz, who passed away in January of this year.

The third of Lott Struble, of Zion, whose death occurred the 11th day of December 1903.

The service of Messrs. Kurtz and Struble is not recorded in the Post rooms and we were able to get but a brief account of them.

Mr Kurtz enlisted July 12th 1864, as a private and served in the 1st battery with the 100 day men, and was mustered out Nov. 12th, 1864.

Mr. Struble enlisted Aug. 20th, 1862, in Co. H, of the 15th cavalry. His record is spotless and he served his country valiantly until he was mustered out June 21st, 1865.

George A. Bayard who every man, woman and child knew in Bellefonte, has a record that cannot be excelled. He enlisted first as a private in Co. H, 2nd Penna., Vol., April 20th, 1861. He was in action at Falling Waters, Martinsburg, Bunker Hill. At the end of the three months service he was mustered out, but re-enlisted and was made 1st Lieut., Co. H, 148th P. V. I. He rose from that office to captain, major and Lt., Col., of the Regiment. He was in action of Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Funkstown, Mannassas Gap, Mine Run, Robertson's Tavern, Locust Grove, Wilderness, Spottsylvania Court House, Spottsylvania, Poe River, Bloody Angel, Milfond's Station, Cold Harbor, Petersburg and Jerusalem Plank Roads. He was taken prisoner of war June 21, 1854, and was in a dozen different southern prisons. He was mustered out of service June 1st, 1865.

The records of these comrades are all honorable and as the memory of all faithful soldiers of the Republic should be cherished and preserved.

Gen. James A. Beaver was the main speaker of the afternoon who paid a loving tribute to each one of the departed comrades. He was followed by Rev. John Wood and Col. Austin Curtin. The music by the quartette was beautiful, impressive and very much appreciated. The services were brought to a close after singing the doxology and benediction by Rev. Morris.

A Death at Pine Grove Mills.

On Sunday evening death kissed down the eyelids of one of Pine Grove Mills most motherly, christian ladies, Mrs. Mary Hoover, widow of the late George Hoover. She had been ill for about six months with a serious throat trouble from which she finally succumbed.

Her maiden name was Mary Reed and she belonged to one of Ferguson township's oldest and most representative families. She was born in Ferguson township and was past 71 years of age. She was a member of the Presbyterian church and will be greatly missed in the community in which she lived.

She is survived by two children, Mrs. Ira Burwell and James Hoover, both of Ferguson township. With the latter she made her home.

She also leaves the following brothers and sisters: William, of Bellefonte; James, of Boalsburg; Jacob, David, Sarah and Maggie of Pine Grove Mills.

The funeral took place Wednesday at 10 a. m. Rev. Harnish, her pastor, officiating. Interment in the new cemetery.

CHAPTER I.

FOR a detective whose talents had not been recognized at headquarters I possessed an ambition which, fortunately for my standing with the lieutenant of the precinct, had not yet been expressed in words. Though I had small reason for expecting great things of myself, I had always cherished the hope that if a big case came my way I should be found able to do something with it—something more, that is, than I had seen accomplished by the police of the District of Columbia since I had had the honor of being one of their number. Therefore, when I found myself plunged, almost without my own volition, into the Jeffrey-Moore affair, I believed that the opportunity had come whereby I might distinguish myself.

It had complications, this Jeffrey-Moore affair; greater ones than the public ever knew, keen as the interest in it ran both in and out of Washington.

This is why I propose to tell the story of this great tragedy from my own standpoint, even if in so doing I risk the charge of attempting to exploit my own connection with this celebrated case. In its course I encountered as many disappointments as triumphs and brought out of the affair a heart as sore as it was satisfied, for I am a lover of women and—

But I am keeping you from the story itself.

I was at the station house the night Uncle David came in. He was always called Uncle David, even by the urchins who followed him in the street, so I am showing him no disrespect, gentleman though he is, by giving him a title which as completely characterized him in those days as did his moody ways, his quaint attire and the persistence with which he kept at his side his great mastiff Rudge.

I had long since heard of the old gentleman as one of the most interesting residents of the precinct. I had even seen him more than once on the avenue, but I had never before been brought face to face with him, and consequently had much too superficial a knowledge of his countenance to determine offhand whether the uneasy light in his small gray eyes was natural to them or simply the result of present excitement. But when he began to talk I detected an unmistakable tremor in his tones and decided that he was in a state of suppressed agitation, though he appeared to have nothing more alarming to impart than the fact that he had seen a light burning in some house presumably empty.

It was all so trivial that I gave him but scant attention till he let a name fall which caused me to prick up my ears and even to put in a word. "The Moore house," he had said.

"The Moore house?" I repeated in amazement. "Are you speaking of the Moore house?"

A thousand recollections came with the name.

"What other?" he grumbled, directing toward me a look as keen as it was impatient. "Do you think that I would bother myself long about a house I had no interest in, or drag Rudge from his warm rug to save some ungrateful neighbor from a possible burglary? No, it is my house which some rogue has chosen to enter. That is," he suavely corrected, as he saw surprise in every eye, "the house which the law will give me, if anything ever happens to that chit of a girl whom my brother left behind him."

Growling some words at the dog, who showed a decided inclination to lie down where he was, the old man made for the door and in another moment would have been in the street, if I had not stepped after him.

"You are a Moore and live in or near that old house?" I asked.

The surprise with which he met this question daunted me a little.

"How long have you been in Washington, I should like to ask?" was his acrid retort.

"Oh, some five months."

His good nature, or what passed for such in this irascible old man, returned in an instant, and he curtly but not unkindly remarked:

"You haven't learned much in that time." Then, with a nod more ceremonious than many another man's bow, he added, with sudden dignity: "I am of the elder branch and live in the cottage fronting the old place. I am the only resident on the block. When you have lived here longer you will know why that especial neighborhood is not a favorite one with those who cannot boast of the Moore blood. For the present, let us attribute the bad name that it holds to—malaria." And with a significant hitch of his lean shoulders, which set in undulating motion every fold of the old fashioned cloak he wore, he started again for the door.

But my curiosity was by this time roused to fever heat. I knew more about this house than he gave me credit for. No one who had read the papers of late, much less a man connected with the police, could help being well informed in all the details of its remarkable history. What I had failed to know was his close relationship to the family whose name for the last two weeks had been in every mouth.

"Wait!" I called out. "You say that you live opposite the Moore house. "You can then tell me"—

But he had no mind to stop for any gossip.

"It was all in the papers," he called back. "Read them. But first be sure to find out who has struck a light in the house that we all know has not even a caretaker in it."

It was good advice. My duty and my curiosity both led me to follow it.

Perhaps you have heard of the distinguishing feature of this house. If so, you do not need my explanations. But if, for any reason, you are ignorant of the facts which within a very short time have set a final seal of horror upon this old historic dwelling, then you will be glad to read what has made and will continue to make the Moore house in Washington one to be pointed at in daylight and shunned after dark, not only by superstitious colored folk, but by all who are susceptible to the most ordinary emotions of fear and dread.

It was standing when Washington was a village. It antedates the capitol and the White House. Built by a man of wealth, it bears to this day the impress of the large ideas and quiet elegance of colonial times; but the shadow which speedily fell across it made it a marked place even in those early days. While it has always escaped the hackneyed epithet of "haunted," families that have moved in have as quickly moved out, giving as their excuse that no happiness was to be found there and that sleep was impossible under its roof. That there was some reason for this lack of rest within walls which were not without their tragic reminiscences all must acknowledge. Death had often occurred there, and while this fact can be stated in regard to most old houses, it is not often that one can say, as in this case, that it was invariably sudden and invariably of one character.

A lifeless man, lying outstretched on a certain hearthstone, might be found once in a house and awaken no special comment, but when this same discovery has been made twice, if not thrice, during the history of a single dwelling, one might surely be pardoned a distrust of its seemingly homelike appointments and discern in its slowly darkening walls the presence of an evil which if left to itself might perish in the natural decay of the place, but which, if met and challenged, might strike again and make another blot on its thrice crimsoned hearthstone.

But these are old fables which I should hardly presume to mention had it not been for the recent occurrence which has recalled them to all men's minds and given to this long empty and slowly crumbling building an importance which has spread its fame from one end of the country to the other. I refer to the tragedy attending the wedding lately celebrated there.

Veronica Moore, rich, pretty and willful, had long cherished a strange liking for this frowning old home of her ancestors and, at the most critical time in her life, conceived the idea of proving to herself and to society at large that no real ban lay upon it save in the imagination of the superstitious. So, being about to marry the choice of her young heart, she caused this house to be opened for the wedding ceremony—with what result you know. Though the occasion was a joyous one and accompanied by all that could give cheer to such a function, it had not escaped the old time shadow. One of the guests straying into the room of ancient and unhallowed memory, the one room which had not been thrown open to the crowd, had been found within five minutes of the ceremony lying on its dolorous hearthstone dead, and, though the bride was spared a knowledge of the dreadful fact till the holy words were said, a panic had seized the guests and emptied the house as suddenly and completely as though the plague had been discovered there.

This is why I hastened to follow Uncle David when he told me that all was not right in this house of tragic memories.

CHAPTER II.

THOUGH past seventy, Uncle David was a brisk walker, and on this night in particular he sped along so fast that he was half way down H street by the time I had turned the corner of New Hampshire avenue.

His gaunt but not ungraceful figure, merged in that of the dog trotting closely at his heels, was the only moving object in the dreary vista of this the most desolate block in Washington. As I neared the building I was so impressed by the surrounding stillness that I was ready to vow that the shadows were denser here than elsewhere and that the few gas lamps which flickered at intervals down the street shone with a more feeble ray than in any other equal length of street in Washington.

Meanwhile the shadow of Uncle David had vanished from the pavement. He had paused beside a fence which, hung with vines, surrounded and nearly hid from sight the little cottage he had mentioned as the only house on the block with the exception of the great Moore place; in other words, his own home.

As I came abreast of him I heard him muttering, not to his dog, as was his custom, but to himself. In fact, the dog was not to be seen, and this desertion on the part of his constant companion seemed to add to his disturbance and affect him beyond all reason. I could distinguish these words among the many he directed toward the unseen animal:

"You're a knowing one—too knowing! You see that loosened shutter over the way as plainly as I do; but you're a coward to slink away from it. I don't. I face the thing, and, what's more, I'll show you yet what I think of a dog that can't stand his ground and help his old master out with some show of courage. Creaks, does it? Well, let it creak. I don't mind its creaking, glad as I should be to know whose hand— Hello! You've come, have you?' This to me. I had just stepped up to him.

"Yes, I've come. Now, what is the matter with the Moore house?"

He must have expected the question, yet his answer was a long time coming. His voice, too, sounded strained, and was pitched quite too high to be natural. But he evidently did not expect me to show surprise at his manner.

"Look at that window over there!" he cried at last. "That one with the slightly open shutter! Watch and you will see that shutter move. There, it creaked! Didn't you hear it?"

A growl—it was more like a moan—came from the porch behind us. Instantly the old gentleman turned and, with a gesture as fierce as it was instinctive, shouted out:

"Be still there! If you haven't the courage to face a blowing shutter, keep your jaws shut and don't let every fellow who happens along know what a fool you are. I declare," he maundered on, half to himself and half to me, "that dog is getting old. He can't be trusted any more. He forsakes his master just when"— The rest was lost in his throat, which rattled with something more than impatient anger.

Meanwhile I had been attentively scrutinizing the house thus pointedly brought to my notice. I had seen it many times before, but, as it happened, had never stopped to look at it when the huge trees surrounding it were shrouded in darkness. The black hollow of its disused portal looked out from shadows which acquired some of their somberness from the tragic memories connected with its empty void.

Its aspect was scarcely reassuring. Not that superstition lent its terrors to the lonely scene, but that through the blank panes of window, alternately appearing and disappearing from view as the shutter pointed out by Uncle David blew to and fro in the wind, I saw or was persuaded that I saw a beam of light which argued an unknown presence within walls which had so lately been declared unfit for any man's habitation.

"You are right," I now remarked to the uneasy figure at my side. "Some one is prowling through the house yonder. Can it possibly be Mrs. Jeffrey or her husband?"

"At night and with no gas in the house? Hardly."

The words were natural, but the voice was not. Neither was his manner quite suited to the occasion. Giving him another sly glance and marking how uneasily he edged away from me in the darkness, I cried out more cheerily than he possibly expected:

"I will summon another officer, and we three will just slip across and investigate."

"Not I!" was his violent rejoinder as he swung open a gate concealed in the vines behind him. "The Jeffreys would resent my intrusion if they ever happened to hear of it."

"Indeed!" I laughed, sounding my whistle. Then, soberly enough, for I was more than a little struck by the oddity of his behavior and thought him as well worth investigation as the house in which he showed such an interest: "You shouldn't let that count. Come and see what's up in the house you are so ready to call yours."

But he only drew farther into the shade.

"I have no business over there," he objected. "Veronica and I have never been on good terms. I was not even invited to her wedding, though I live within a stone's throw of the door. No; I have done my duty in calling attention to that light, and whether it's the bullseye of a burglar—perhaps you don't know that there are rare treasures on the bookshelves of the great library—or whether it is the fantastic illumination which frightens fool folks and some fool dogs, I'm done with it and done with you, too, for tonight."

As he said this he mounted to his door and disappeared under the vines, hanging like a shroud over the front of the house. In another moment the rich peal of an organ sounded from within, followed by the prolonged howling of Rudge, who, either from a too keen appreciation of his master's music or in utter disapproval of it—no one, I believe, has ever been able to make out which—was accustomed to add this undesirable accompaniment to every strain from the old man's hand. The playing did not cease because of these outrageous discords. On the contrary, it increased in force and volume, causing Rudge's expression of pain or pleasure to increase also. The result can be imagined. As I listened to the intolerable bowls of the dog cutting clean through the exquisite harmonies of his master I wondered if the shadows cast by the frowning structure of the great Moore house were alone to blame for Uncle David's lack of neighbors.

Meantime Hibbard, who was the first to hear my signal, came running down the block. As he joined me the light, or what we chose to call a light, appeared in the window toward which my attention had been directed.

"Some one's in the Moore house!" I declared, in as matter of fact tones as I could command.

Hibbard is a big fellow, the biggest fellow on the force, and, so far as my own experience with him had gone, as stolid and imperturbable as the best of us. But after a quick glance at the towering walls of the lonely building he showed decided embarrassment and seemed in no haste to cross the street.

With difficulty I concealed my disgust.

"Come," I cried, stepping down from the curb, "let's go over and investigate. The property is valuable, the furnishings are handsome, and there is no end of costly books on the library shelves. You have matches and a revolver?"

He nodded, quietly showing me first the one, then the other; then, with a sheepish air which he endeavored to carry off with a laugh, he cried:

"Have you use for 'em? If so, I'm quite willing to part with 'em for a half hour."

I was more than amazed at this evidence of weakness in one I had always considered as tough and impenetrable as flint rock. Thrusting back the hand with which he had half drawn into view the weapon I had mentioned, I put on my sternest air and led the way across the street. As I did so, I tossed back the words:

"We may come upon a gang. You do not wish me to face some half dozen men alone?"

"You won't find any half dozen men there," was his muttered reply. Nevertheless he followed me, though with less spirit than I liked, considering that my own manner was in a measure assumed and that I was not without sympathy—well, let me say, for a dog who preferred howling a dismal accompaniment to his master's music to keeping open watch over a neighborhood dominated by the unhallowed structure I now proposed to enter.

At the first touch the door yielded. It was not even latched.

COLONEL MONROE

The Lincolnville Philosopher Wonders What Would Be the Effect of Governmental Competition With the Railroad Syndicates

By FREDERICK UPHAM ADAMS

Copyright, 1903, by Frederick Upham Adams

THE prospect that the Canadian government will undertake the construction and operation of a railroad connecting the Atlantic with the Pacific was the topic which opened the discussion.

"I have been looking into this matter," said Judge Sawyer, "and I find that there is a strong sentiment in Canada in favor not only of building such a road, but also of gradually acquiring by purchase all of the roads now in private hands. It strikes me as strange that so radical a step can obtain substantial support in that country and hardly be heard of in this. There is no movement of any consequence in the United States looking to the national ownership and operation of railroads."

"There is no political movement that way," remarked Colonel Monroe, "and none of our alleged statesmen are advocating such a policy. And yet I venture the assertion that the vast majority of well informed citizens are in favor of the national ownership of railroads, and there is not the slightest doubt in my mind that an overwhelming majority of the people would vote in favor of such action if given a chance. When it becomes an issue, the tide of popular sentiment in its favor will crush all opposition. When the movement once gets under way, I doubt if either of the great parties will openly oppose it."

"Whatever of influence I have," declared Judge Sawyer, "will be cast against the purchase of the railroads by the government. In my opinion, no such step should be taken."

"I thoroughly agree with you," said Colonel Monroe. The judge looked into his face with surprise.

"What do you mean?" he asked. "Your arguments and your declaration do not agree."

"I never have advocated the national ownership of existing railroad lines," asserted the colonel. "You have misunderstood me."

"I certainly have misunderstood you," returned Judge Sawyer. "I am curious to know what point you are attempting to make."

"I hold that the government should build and operate its own lines, which is a far different proposition from purchasing those now existing," explained Colonel Monroe. "Most owners of railroad stocks and bonds are making frantic efforts to sell them, and the demoralization in Wall street is striking evidence of this fact. I repeat what I have said in former talks on this subject, that our railroads are antiquated. They have not kept pace with the progress of science or invention. This may sound strange, but it is absolutely a fact. Our railroads are modeled on the primitive lines established by Stephenson and the other pioneers who worked out the first locomotive and laid the first roadbed. So vast a sum of money has been invested in methods now known to be wrong that it is almost impossible for the owners to install modern improvements. Our railroad system is like Sam Crandall's house. Did you ever see that mansion, judge?"

"Not in several years," said Judge Sawyer, smiling. "It was a wonderful structure even then."

"You should see it now. I drove past it the other day. When Sam's father died he willed to Sam the old homestead. The house was a substantial, old fashioned structure, and it had been deemed good enough for three successive generations of Crandalls. It suited Sam all right until a real estate boom set in, and Sam found that his farm was in the center of a fashionable neighborhood. He was shrewd enough to hold on to his land or let it go in small lots at big prices. As his wealth increased, the old house did not look good enough to suit Sam. But it was too good to tear down. So Sam compromised by adding a story and a tower, also several bay windows. This cost a considerable sum. Then Sam sold more lots and with the proceeds put in hardwood floors and decorated walls and ceilings. The old house originally cost perhaps $4,000, but Sam's improvements amounted to five times that amount. Then Sam got married and added a conservatory to the old buildings. He was getting rich very fast and realized that he had made a mistake in attempting to make a new house out of an old one; but it was too late.

"The men who own our railroads are in the same position as Sam Crandall," continued Colonel Monroe. "In fact, they are in a much worse position. Sam does not depend on his house as a source of revenue, while the railroad investor must look to an obsolete system for his profits. If there were an interest wealthy enough to offer a fair price for the great trunk lines now owned or controlled practically by one syndicate it would not take long to close the deal. They would accept a price which would establish some new low records for railway stocks and bonds. But no such purchaser comes forward. There is only one property owner in the world wealthy enough to negotiate such a deal, and that is the United States government. For the same reason that I would not purchase Sam Crandall's house I should oppose the public purchase of existing railroad lines.

"I believe that the government should go into the railroad business without delay," asserted Colonel Monroe, "but it is idle to expect that any action will be taken so long as the interests which would be menaced are dominant in shaping party policies."

"The construction of such a railroad system by the government would result in the depreciation of all railway values and the absolute wiping out of many securities," declared Judge Sawyer. "Thousands of investments would be menaced, and innocent holders of stock all over the country would suffer losses. Have you ever stopped to think of that?"

"I have," responded Colonel Monroe. "Did you ever stop to think that every great public improvement, be it private or public, menaces in exactly the same way the holdings of innocent persons? Did you ever stop to think that the prospect that wireless telegraphy will be a commercial success menaces the dividends of the thousands of 'widows and orphans' who are reputed to own all or nearly all of the property in the world? It is remarkable how much interest an imperiled capitalist takes in the welfare of 'widows and orphans.' Did you ever stop to think that the railway companies paid little attention to the woes of stagecoach owners and investors in shipping? You have voiced a popular argument against state competition with monopoly, but it is not a logical one. When a man, or a woman, for that matter, invests a dollar in anything it is done with the full knowledge that there is a chance of its loss by reason of destructive competition. For that reason there is no such thing as an absolutely safe investment in the world. By what right do you claim exemption from competition in favor of the holders of railroad stocks?"

"I should like to see a genuine revival of railroad competition," said the judge, "and I should like nothing better than to see the trusts forced to fight for their share of the market, but I claim that the government has no right to interfere in either case."

"And I claim that it has," laughed Colonel Monroe, "and between us we represent both sides of the greatest question which ever confronted an intelligent people. I think that both of us will admit that a government has a right to carry into effect the properly recorded verdict of a majority of the people. Well and good. Thus far the people have made no demand for an extension of the functions of the government in the directions we have been discussing, but I hold, as I have said, that the logic of events has created a situation in which there remain only two avenues of escape from abuses and deficiencies which are becoming intolerable. One is the purchase and operation of the railroads by the government, and the other is the re-establishment of competition, with the government as a bidder for public patronage."

"If conditions are as bad as you claim," insisted Judge Sawyer, "I do not understand why competition does not assert itself. If it is possible to build a great railroad system vastly superior to the present one, why do not capitalists come forward and do so?"

"Because there are no capitalists outside of those directly or indirectly interested in the existing railroad system," responded Colonel Monroe. "There are from twelve to fifteen billion dollars represented in railway securities, and every banking institution in the country is controlled by the owners of these billions. You know as well as I do, judge, that it is a certainty that private capital will never again build another competing railway across the country. Where would you go, suppose you had a million to invest in such an enterprise, to raise the remaining millions with which to construct a competitor to one of the great railway systems? Wall, Lasalle or Lombard street would laugh at you. Private competition is impossible. Having a monopoly, the railroads are not compelled to make improvements. There is only one possible competitor, the national government."

"I doubt if the government would make a financial success of such an enterprise," remarked Judge Sawyer as he arose to go.

"Then your 'innocent' holders of existing railroad stocks would not suffer," rejoined Colonel Monroe. "The great trouble with you conservatives who object to the government taking any part in industrial affairs is that you contradict yourself when you attempt to defend things as they are. One moment you insist that national ownership will be so decided a success that its competition will wipe all private enterprise off the face of the earth, and the next moment you declare that your opposition to public ownership is based on the fact that such an undertaking is foredoomed to financial failure. I wish you would stand still long enough for me to get your range, judge."

"I may be a bit mixed this evening," admitted Judge Sawyer, "but am still unconvinced."

NEW JERSEY JUSTICE.

It Makes a reputation Equal to Jersey Lightning.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., July 16.—Aaron Timbers, Jonas Sims and William Austin, the three negroes who confessed to assaulting Mrs. Elsie Biddle, of Burlington, were Friday sentenced to 49 years each in the state prison at Trenton, after a record-breaking trial. The three men arrived in Mt. Holly at 1:15 p. m. Less than half an hour later they had pleaded guilty, been given the extreme penalty for their crimes by Judge Gaskill and were on their way to Trenton to begin their long sentence.

When the three men, handcuffed to three detectives, stepped from the train there were at least 1,000 persons congregated about the railroad station. Company A, New Jersey National Guard, quickly opened a passageway and within five minutes the criminals were in the court house. Judge Gaskill had ordered that the curious be excluded from the court room, and in consequence of this order only the newspaper men and the guardsmen were admitted.

A PROMPT SENTENCE.

When the negroes were brought before the Court, Judge Gaskill appointed counsel to defend the men. A brief consultation was held between counsel and the three men, and it was announced that the men would plead guilty. Judge Gaskill accepted the plea and in pronouncing sentence said:

"The judgment of the law and sentence of the Court is that for the charge of rape to which you have just pleaded guilty each of you be confined in the state prison at hard labor for the term of fifteen years; upon the charge of robbery, fifteen years; upon the charge of assault with intent to kill an officer, twelve years, and upon the charge of robbing the house of William Steaker, seven years, making a total of forty-nine years."

CONSUMED FIFTEEN MINUTES.

The disposition of the cases of the three criminals had consumed about fifteen minutes. As soon as sentence had been pronounced the men were removed from the court house. As they appeared at the entrance the soldiers formed two columns of four and with the men in the centre they marched down a side street to the special train which has brought them from Camden. The first demonstration of any character took place as the negroes neared the train. Here a crowd of several hundred men and boys had gathered. They hooted and jeered the negroes, and the cry of "Shoot 'em" was heard distinctly several times.

It was decided to run the special train by way of Kinkora Junction to avoid any possible demonstration that might be made should they pass through Burlington.

JUSTICE'S NEW RECORD.

Trenton was reached at 2:30 and the men had begun their sentences at 2:45. They had travelled about one hundred miles, were tried and sentenced and placed in jail in the remarkably brief period of six hours and fifteen minutes.

THE START FROM LANCASTER.

LANCASTER, July 16.—The Sheriff of Burlington county, N. J., left here Friday morning with the two negroes, Aaron Timbers and Jonas Sims, who assaulted Mrs. Biddle at Burlington. Constable Wittick, of Columbia, who had entered a complaint against the negroes at Columbia of felonious assaults, had left orders that they should not be handed over to the New Jersey authorities without notifying him. Friday morning the New Jersey Sheriff and a detective went to the jail and took possession of the prisoners and started in a trolly car for a railway station.

A few blocks away Wittick's attorney got on the car, and after a wordy war the negroes were taken back to jail notwithstanding the protests of the Jersey officials. An agreement was reached and the prisoners taken away.

WHAT THE EARTH PRODUCES.

Are We Children of Nature?

WHO can but admire the beautiful things in Nature—the glory of the landscape, the trees, the meadows, the beauty of the sea and heaven! When we can admire we know that we are children of nature. The earth has nourished us through unknown ages of human existence. Is it not true that the earth supplies us with everything that we really require for existence? We can live on vegetables and fruit which the earth produces. We would probably be better off to-day as a race without meat. Have you ever thought that it is probable that the earth supplied us with the means to keep our bodily vigor, our health, if we only knew it? The animals know by instinct what is good for them and will search until they find in some plant what they need for correcting indigestion or constipation, etc. Is it, therefore, not possible that there are roots and herbs supplied by nature which will cure the diseases that afflict human kind? That is why Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has such faith in his "Medical Discovery." Years ago, when he was in general and active practice, he found that a combination of certain herbs and roots made into an alterative extract, without the use of alcohol, would always put the stomach into a healthy condition, nourish the tissues, feed the blood and nerves and put healthy tone into the whole system.

There are some people who can lose fat to advantage, but the loss of flesh is one of the accepted evidences of failing health. As flesh-making processes begin in the stomach, so naturally when there is loss of flesh, we look first to the stomach for the cause. And the cause is generally found to be disease of the stomach and digestive and nutrive tracts, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequent physical weakness.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food from which flesh and strength are made.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. It thus cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it enriches the body with an abundant supply of pure, rich blood.

"I was all run down, very nervous, and suffered terribly from stomach trouble, which the doctors pronounced indigestion," writes Mrs. Wm. Morey, of Marshall, Mich. "I doctored for a year without permanent relief. Was advised by a friend to try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after the use of nine bottles I was cured. I can heartily recommend the 'Golden Medical Discovery' to any one suffering from stomach trouble. My husband was also greatly benefited by its use."

"I am pleased to tell you that three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured my husband of liver complaint and indigestion," writes Mrs. G. Hall, of Novar, Ontario. "He suffered for a long time with pain in his right side and had to leave off work several times. Tried three doctors here but they did not do any good; also tried several kinds of patent medicines but received no benefit. Then I wrote to you and you advised us to try your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' We got a bottle at once and before my husband had taken all of this one bottle he was feeling ever so much better and able to work again. He continued with the 'Discovery' until he had taken three bottles and is now feeling better than for years. We both thank you, and, if you think by publishing this it will benefit other sufferers, you are at liberty to do so. We have got several friends to try your 'Golden Medical Discovery' for different complaints and I am pleased to say that it has never failed. We wish you every success."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." Nothing is "just as good."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the clogged system from impurities.

Have the Courage of Your Convictions.

Deputy Revenue Collector Rees for some time has been receiving anonymous letters informing him of the violations of the revenue laws by persons in this city This is very annoying to the officer. If it is known to any of our citizens that the revenue laws are openly or secretly violated those who have a knowledge of the same should be courageous enough to say so over their own signatures and not call the officer's attention to it in an anonymous communication and leave him entirely helpless so far as securing evidence is concerned in the event that some one is an offender under the law. If our citizens know of any offenders, be manly and courageous enough to say so to the officer and render him the proper assistance rather than put yourself in the attitude of a spy without the courage of your convictions.—Lock Haven Democrat.

—Mr. Will Musser, and son Francis have sustained painful although not serious injuries, caused by a horse becoming unruly while doing some plowing.

—Methodist Day at Lakemont Park will be August 4th and the principal speakers will be Dr. Don S. Colt, Dr. Heisse and Bishop Warne of Asia. Bishop Warne will deliver the sermon.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Kistner wheeled from Elkhart, Indiana, to Almedia, Columbia county. The coupled started on their big bicycle journey June 6, and passed 192 towns en route.

—Little Paul Erhart, aged three years, son of George Erhart, on the J. T. Potter farm, above Centre Hall, was badly gored by a cow in the barn yard a few days ago. The cow's horns caught him in the face near the mouth causing an ugly gash which required several stitches to fix it up.

—A new game of apples is out. This is the way it is played: A young man calls on his best girl and takes along a small red apple. At the proper time he tosses the apple up in the air. If it comes down he kisses the girl. If it stays up he does not. If apples are scarce, most anything else will do. Francis Speer is said to be very expert at playing this game.

—Prof. John A. Hunter, who since his graduation from The Pennsylvania State College with the class of 1900, has been an instructor in the engineering department at that institution, has accepted a professorship in the University of Colorado, at Bowlder, Colorado, and will go west for the opening of the fall term. In addition to being very popular with the student body at State Prof. Hunter has been such a capable instructor that the trustees made exceptional efforts to retain him, but without avail, for his health is such that a change of climate is absolutely imperative and he hopes that the higher altitude of Colorado will bring the desired result. He is a son of Cap't. J. A. Hunter, of Stormstown.

—The teachers' county institute will be held this year sometime during the month of November. The change from the usual time during the holidays has been occasioned by the difficulty in obtaining instructors at that time.

—William Trump, of Norristown, and party of Philadelphia friends, who are camping on Pine Creek, were thrown into the wildest excitement a few days ago by seeing a fine doe come down the mountain side and swim the creek close to their camp.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

GOOD ROADS.

An Act of Assembly, passed in April of last year, appropriates a large sum of money from the State treasury to be spent upon road making under the supervision of a State commission. This money is to be expended solely on the township roads' no borough or city, may participate in this fund save where a proposed road passes through such borough or city. The fund is for the benefit of the country districts alone the township or its citizens may contract for the road making, and in any event a great portion of the fund is spent among those who will derive the main benefit from the road's existence.

To Centre County something over ten thousand dollars has already been apportioned. If this sum is not applied for by this county during this year we lose its advantage forever. We are all in favor of good roads' if they do not cost us too much in taxes. Why not take advantage of this fund now and have a good road instead of paying out taxes in the future for poor ones?

The REPUBLICAN would suggest to the supervisors of Boggs and Spring townships the advisability of applying for state aid in the rebuilding of the public highway between Milesburg and Bellefonte. Since the turnpike was abandoned this road has greatly deteriorated. This stretch of road is slightly over a mile and a half long between the respective borough limits, five-sixths of a mile in Spring and three-fourths of a mile in Boggs.

A reliable engineer, who has examined the Highway Commission's specifications, states that $2000. per mile would be a very fair estimate of the necessary expense, or a total of $3150, for the whole stretch. Of this amount the state would pay two thirds, the county one-sixth, and the two townships their respective shares of the remaining one-sixth, or $275. for Spring and $250. for Boggs. Even were the cost twice as great, would not this be a trifling payment for the benefit to be derived?

For this slight expense, these townships would have, first, a model road in every respect, second, a future reduction of road tax corresponding with the amounts now spent or to be spent on this highway, and third, a yearly appropriation by the state for the purpose of keeping the same in good repair.

In addition, the citizens of this entire section would be greatly benefited by the increased ease of travel between Bellefonte and Milesburg.

This part of the old pike is probably the most frequently used highway in Centre County. It would be an ideal location to begin the future good roads of this county and the supervisors in whose terms the work is commenced will have a magnificent monument to their progressive ideas.

Uncle Adlai Stevenson has not yet forwarded his congratulations to Grandfather Davis in the matter of the vice presidential nomination.

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., July, 19, 1904.

Whatever the President does, whether in this city, or out of it, is read with interest by the vast number of people employed in the Departments here, as well as the population generally. While the work of the Government must go on without intermission, and while the heat of the city is at times intense, it is a pleasure to know that President Roosevelt is sleeping out of doors with his boys, or is taking a row on the Sound, crabbing or fishing, or sets a good example by chopping at the family wood pile, or is playing tennis, and perhaps receiving delegations of visitors from all points of the compass who want him to settle the affairs of the world, and do it at once by rule of thumb. Meanwhile he is preparing his speech to be delivered on the 27th inst., when he will be officially notified of his nomination.

It is denied that there is any politics in the recent strikes, or that any action the President may have taken has anything to do with current labor troubles. The fact that the packing-house magnates and their striking employes are willing to arbitrate their differences is proof that the trouble is non partisan. Nor is it at all probable, as has been stated, that the President has issued orders through the Department of Justice, that the injunction case against the beef packers must be taken up by the Supreme Court immediately after convening for the October term. The President cannot issue such orders. The Court is a coordinate branch of the Government, and attends to its business according to its own rules, without pressure from any source. It is as independent of the Executive as the Executive is of it.

Prominent Republicans who have returned to Washington since the Chicago convention, express the utmost satisfaction with the political attitude of the West. Senator Foraker of Ohio, who lives on Sixteenth street in this city, said Friday that everything is calm, confident and prosperous in the great middle western states. He says the sentiment is overwhelming for Roosevelt, and he predicts a large Republican majority in Indiana and Wisconsin. Senator Dick says: I am unable to see how the Democratic party has ever the ghost of a chance to win. One reason why there will be no Democratic victory is the eminent success of the Administration of President Roosevelt, and the fact that the people have not forgotten the last Democratic Administration.

When one recollects the great success which has heretofore attended the efforts of Senator Tillman upon the stump flourishing a pitch-fork, and advocating the "shooting of niggers" success is disgusting the people and rolling up a large vote for the Republicans. There are those who will learn with complacency that he proposes to go through the same program during the next three months. Stopping in this city a few days ago to consult a throat doctor. He denied that he had been spilled out of an automobile in St. Louis, falling on top of Senator Bailey of Texas. It was not his ankle which was sprained, but his throat, and if it gets better, he said: "I will work as hard as I did in 1896 and 1900." This is good news for Republicans.

The re-inspection of passenger steamboats by the Department of Commerce and Labor of this city, is now being conducted in a thorough manner, and some remarkable discoveries have been made. On one steamship many of the life-preservers had big holes in their covers from which granulated cork poured when they were moved. On some the canvas was so weak that it parted on the slightest strain. Secretary Metcalf has a golden opportunity to win the thanks and confidence of the public, besides rendering traveling by water comparatively safe. He is quietly and efficiently at work carrying on the great Department left by Secretary Cortelyou.

On the 7th of September the International Geographic Congress will be held in this city. After a four days session here it will reconvene at Philadelphia, and then at New York, at Niagara Falls, at Chicago and finally at St. Louis, reaching there on the 10th of September. Several hundred delegates are expected from all parts of the world, and 300 papers have been submitted for presentation before the Congress. Spanish, French, English, German, and Italian, will be recognized as the languages which may be used. President Roosevelt is the honorary president, and Commander Robert E. Peary, U. S. N., is acting President of the Congress. The Vice President include all the ambassadors and foreign ministers in Washington. Meetings will be held in the hall of Geore Washington University. Many gentlemen connected with the scientific work of the Government will read papers on subjects connected with physiography of the land, meteorology, oceanography, glaciers, and explorations in various far-away lands. A series of social entertainments have been arranged.

Mr. Cortelyou has arranged for opening Republican headquarrers in New York city Representative Joseph W. Babcock of Wisconsin, has passed through this city on route to take charge. Friday he said there is no danger of losing the national ticket in his state on account of factional differences. Both have agreed on the same Presidential electors. In no state in the Union is President Roosevelt so strong as in Wisconsin. He expressed himself as quite satisfied with the Democratic platform. "They could not have done better for us if they had tried," he said as he took the train for New York.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness." Dirt and depravity go hand in hand. This is just as true of the inside of the body as the out side. Constipation clogs the body and clouds the mind. Constipation means that corruption is breeding in the body, poisoning the blood with its foul emanations, befogging the brain with its tainted exhalation. Constipation is the beginning of more diseases than perhaps any other single disorder. The consequences of constipation are legion. Headache, pain in the side, shortness of breath, undue fullness after eating, coldness of the extremities, nervousness, indecision, lassitude, dizziness, sallowness, flatulence, and a score of other ailments are directly caused by constipation. Cure constipation and you cure its consequences. The quickest cure of this evil is obtained by the use of Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are small in size but wonderful in result. They cure permanently. They contain no injurious ingredients. The use of them does not beget the "pill habit." Ask your druggist for them.

Send 21 one-cent stamps, the expense of mailing only, and receive Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers. This work contains 1008 pages and 700 illustrations. For 31 stamps it can be had in substantial cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LETTER FROM ELAINE ROZE.

The Land of Evangeline, Dress for Travel.

After years of traveling back and forth over "the briny" I have come to the conclusion that no more delightful trip can be taken than a short sea voyage to Nova Scotia, and one could travel for months through remote foreign lands without finding a hundredth part of the charm and beauty of this land of Longfellows Evangeline.

Last week, with a view to making a study of the traveling American woman, I took this trip, which is the latest fad of the fashionable woman, who realizes the importance a of complete rest as a beauty builder after and arduous social season.

It is the exceptional American woman who overdresses for traveling to day, so I happily saw little to criticise in the way of unsuitable costuming, but rather much to admire in the trig and simple walking length gowns with their accompaning neat and stylish shirt waists, and on no transatlantic steamer have I seen more correct dressing than on the broad promenade decks of the luxurious Prince Arthur, of the Monson Line.

Through the beautiful Long Island Sound by daylight one of New York's most fashionable women wore a brown raw silk gown which neither soils nor shows dust easily, and which was made in a seven gored skirt, the tucked bottom of which just escaped the deck. The jaunty little jacket had the fashionable short flowing sleeve, which fell over the dainty sleeve of white raw silk shirt waist. The hat was a brown rough straw with strappings of ecru straw and an ecru coq plume drooped gracefully over the left side.

Another charming gown for the first steamer day and for wear on landing was a porcelain blue linen, box plaited all around, and adorned at the bottom with two wide tucks which are repeated just above the knees. The shirt waist is tucked and trimmed with narrow embroidery. A white roll brimmed sailor with blue leather binding and white straw bow completes this costume.

And while on the subject of dress for your outing, remember that unrestricted lungs, are of paramount importance, and fortunately in the matter of a proper corset to accomplish this result health and fashion are not at a variance, so by choosing a correctly built and fashionable corset, such as the C B a la Spirite, which holds the abdomen in and the hips back, you will find yourself taking full long breath of health giving air, and come back from your recreation trip with renewed capacity for work or play.

CORRESPONDENCE

SNOW SHOE.

Max Mellon and Arthur G. Burgoyne of Pittsburg, Pa., are visiting friends at this place.

The officials of the Snow Shoe Lumber Co., F. C. Reese and C. N. Brumm were in town for a few days.

St. Mary's Catholic church proposes to hold a Rain-Bow Tea on Tuesday evening.

Rev. Corcoran pastor of St. Mary's church went on his retreat Monday.

The Wallace Bros. brick layers of Milesburg have begun work on the James Uzzle residence.

Miss Margaret Stuart spent Sunday at her home at State College.

Geo. Fravel is again seen on the streets of his native town.

Mr. Harry Leathers now lives on Sycamore St. in the E. A. Humpton residence.

Wm. R. Haynes made a business trip to Snow Shoe Tuesday.

Mr. Chas. Zindle is improving his property by placing a wire fence around the same. We are glad to hear and record any thing which tends to beautifying and improve the town, its sidewalks and property. We will always be glad to sing words of praise about such people. We have on several occasions mentioned re-building and repairing sidewalks and on each occasion a ready response by good-intended upright citizens. At present writing the place needing sidewalks is the Mountain House property. The walks in front of this noted and accomodating Hotel are dangerous to tread upon and a six foot walk should be built by the owners before anymore accidents occur.

Yesterday (Wednesday) was a glorious day for the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School. It was the occasion of their annual picnic at Thomas' Park. Everyone present had a grand time, children and parents; teachers and guests, all uniting in making it the most successful that they have ever had. Several new features were added this year. The most important were the band from Curtin which furnished music and the young people serving the dinner instead of the mothers as in former years. A hack was hired by the young mens bible class to convey the children to and from the park.

Base ball has been somewhat quiet the past week The first team was disappointed in having the game with Curtin cancelled, and the second team has not played since they went down to defeat by the Howard Hot Air team. The Catholic Temperance Union's nine has entered the arena this week and played two games. On Saturday they defeated the Clarence Goodwills by a score of 17 to 2 and on Tuesday met defeat at the hands of the Peale boys. In both these games Manager Kelley's team was in good form which shows the result of systematic practice and competent coaching. In the game with Peale, the boys lost through costly errors, up to the 7th inning the Union boys were in the lead. In the seventh with a force run on hand Fleming hit a two base hit and Kelley's overthrow to the home plate tallied four runs for the Peale boys. Casher's failure to stop the ball on second cost the Society two more runs The boys batted Cruger well but their hits were scattered The game was well played an i exciting throughout

The Gypsy Camp Social referced to last week was "pu led off" successfully on Friday night. Perhaps owing to the novelty of the thing it was very well patronized—so well in fact that the management had some notion of continuing the performance the next night. This was reconsidered, however, on the theory that one might be able to "fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time but could not fool all the people all of the time." So the tribe decamped before daybreak Saturday morning.

Budingers are entertaining a crowd of ten or fifteen young people at a camp out along the river some distance above Karthaus. Congress not now being in session Hon. A. G. Burgoyne, of Pittsburg, is able to be here accompanied by Mr. Max P. Mellon, of the same place. Mr. Norman Holt, of Philipsburg, is expected to be on hand also.

A nasty wreck occurred to a coal train on the P. R. R., near No. 4 switch on the mountain last Saturday afternoon, six loaded cars being precipitated over the embankment and down the mountain side. A broken flange was the cause. Conductor J. G Lucas jumped from the top of one of the big steel cars lighting on his head and shoulder. His injuries are considered serious but by no means fatal.

BUFFALO RUN

The concert held at Grays church last Saturday evening proved a grand success Everyone who took any part in it deserve much credit for the way in which they acquitted themselves.

Master Orvis Huey is on the sick list. it is sincerely hoped he may speedily recover.

Miss Angelia Stine has returned home from Elmira, N Y., where she had been visiting relatives.

Miss Heckman spent Sunday at the home of Rev. J. C. Hartsock.

Squire Furst entertained a number of his friends from Altoona over Sunday.

Mr. Joseph Huey and family spent Sunday with Mr. Huey's son Thomas

Miss Stine and Duey, of Philipsburg, are visiting their grand parents, Mr and Mrs. Kelley.

The farmers have again jumped into their hay fields and by this time they have gotten it most all in. The crop is in fine shape and in great abundance

F. D. Hartsock and family expect to behome for a month or six weeks.

Miss Turner, of State College, is visiting her cousin Miss Evey.

Miss Edna Hartsock, of Philipsburg, is visiting her many friends at Buffalo Run.

Mr. Guyer Stine, of Pittsburg, is visiting his parents at this place. Guyer is a very bright young man and holds a responsible position in the Smoky City.

Clark Hartsock clerk in F. Potts Green's drug store at Bellefonte spent Sunday with his friends at Buffalo Run.

BLANCHARD.

Everybody is invited to the Festival and "Peramid Social" to be held in the Y. M. C. A. building next Saturday evening. Come all and bring your best girl and enjoy a good time generally.

Mrs. Wm. Harter and Mrs. Al. Bitner and wife attended the funeral of Mr. Wm. Leathers Monday.

Mr. Howard Bitner of Girard College, and Harry Bitner of New Jersey are visiting their mother Mrs. Al. Bitner.

Mr. Jones Thomas and family of McKeeport are visiting friends and relatives here,

Mrs. Levi Rupert and sons of Beech Creek spent Sunday with her sister Mrs. Nathan James.

The Mock Trial held by the "Barecka Society" last Wednesday night was a grand success. Mr. Burns Bechdel and Harris Spangler were accused by Hensyl Johnson and Ray Kunes, of cruelly beating their horses while out driving with their lady friends. William Ridge as defendent for the accused and Russel Bechdel as district attorney sustained their parts well, while "Judge" David Gardner pronounced his sentence in a very austere manner. The boys are doing finely in their new society under their pastor Rev. West and we predict for them all a successful future.

BENORE.

Mr. R. E. Cronimiller has returned home from a short visit in Pittsburg.

Roy Farber and Harry Murtorff spent several days with relatives in Graysville last week.

Mr. William Heberling while gathering raspberries last week came in contact with a large rattle-snake having thirteen rattles.

Mr. S. W. Lytle and family spent the greater part of last week with relatives in Tyrone.

A number of our boys were fishing last week, they said they had very good luck not only catching fish but snapping turtles.

Mr. Clemson Williams of Altoona is now in our town.

The M. E. Church choir attended the musical concert at Gray's church on last Saturday evening.

OAK HALL

Miss Elsie Peters is spending some time with her brother James Peters at Rock Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Knoffsinger of Pleasant Gap visited at Andy Moyers over Sunday.

Miss Minnie Kline entertained Miss Fannie Mulbarger and Miss Roxie O'Brian of Bellefonte; Miss Edith Wiebly and Miss Esther Kline of State College over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kline and son of Houserville, Mr. and Mrs. Wiebly of State College visited at this place.

Mervin Kuhn of Jefferson Co. called on old friends at this place on Friday.

Mr. Close visited his daughter at Pine Grove last Friday.

Mrs. Miller spent Friday at Lemont.

Miss Mattie Klinger of Lemont spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Susan Peters.

CENTRE HALL.

Mr. Poulsen, who at one time was associated with Wm. Colyer in the manufacture of handles, is spending a few days in this place.

Rev. O. J. Carver, of Glen Rose, Texas, is visiting the family of Rev. Dr. Schuyler. He is a brother of Mrs. Schuyler. Some twenty years ago he went to Texas as a missionary, and established an academic school for the training of young men for the ministry. He reports that among the better class of people a sentiment in favor of giving the negro his rights is gradually developing.

The storm of last Monday evening blew down a large number of trees and did considerable damage.

Some people report that the blight has attacked the potato crop again.

Some of our farmers are making hay in their grain fields.

Next week the union picnic of the Centre Hall and Plum Grove Sabbath schools will be held in the Brun woods east of town. Everybody is invited to come and bring something good to eat along.. Come parents and bring the children; come young men and bring your sweethearts; come one and all.

Last Saturday evening the startling intelligence reached us that the large barn of Justice M. L Rishel, of Farmers' Mills was entirely consumed by fire believed to be caused by overheating of the hay which had about all been housed.

WOODWARD.

Jno. Goodhart returned home last Monday.

Orio and Leon Motz from South Carolina are visiting their brother C. D. Motz.

Miss Laura Hutchinson from Lewisburg is visiting with Mrs Motz.

Miss Minnie Winkleman the nurse left Mrs. Motz on Monday.

Mrs. A. M. Yearick was to Fiedler one day this week.

Misses Nora and Mable Guisewite from State College are visiting their mother Mrs. D. M. Stover.

Charles Musser and lady friend Miss Emma Eberhart were to Young People's meeting at St. Paul last Thursday night.

The P. O. S. of A. will have a festival the 23rd Saturday evening.

The remains of Emanuel Motz from South Carolina were brought to this place for burial on Saturday morning. His age was 69 yrs. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Buck in the Evangelical church. NO CHANGE IN STRIKE

Situation at Chicago Varied Only in Riot.

CHICAGO, July 18.—There was little if any change in the situation of the meat packers' strike here Sunday. With Michael Donnelly, the strikers' leader, in St. Louis, looking after that end of the difficulty there was no effort here Sunday to renew the peace negotiations which lasted through three days last week, and were terminated Saturday night without result. Whether another attempt to reach an adjustment of the controversy by arbitration will be made, is problematic as the packers, believing they had the better of the argument in last week's conferences, are little inclined to offer any concessions to the strikers. One thing is certain, the packers say, that they will not recede from the position they assumed in last week's conference and that the strikers will have to conform to the employers' ultimatum before any further peace plans looking to a settlement by arbitration will be successful. To add to the packers determination to stand firm is the fact that they have steadily increased their working force by the employment of outside workmen, until Sunday, it was said, that things were in almost normal condition at seven plants. Under these conditions the packers have assumed a more independent attitude and were more determined Sunday night than ever that they and not the strikers shall dictate the terms on which the controversy shall be arbitrated.

The strikers declare that they conceded every point possible in last weeks negotiations, there is little likelihood that any further conferences for the present, at least, would amount to much toward a satisfactory settlement of the strike. With both sides is this frame of mind the out look for a speedy settlement is decidedly dark.

The striking point to the whole question of arbitration is the reinstatement of the strikers. Mr. Donnelly, at Saturday's conference with the packers, waived every other demand he had made, and agreed to order the men back to work, leaving the adjustment of all differences to arbitration, if the employers would take back all the strikers in a body. This the packers refused to do, maintaining that they had hired many new workmen since the strike whom they could not discharge. They promised, however, to take back the old employes as rapidly as possible, and in the order which their applications were filed. The Union officials declare that they will never accept this proposition, as they say it would mean the disruption of the Union inside of three months.

To complicate the controversy still more, the allied craft at the stock yards, numbering 14,000 workmen, have become restless and are anxious to join the men already out, in a sympathetic strike. Whether these men will go on strike or not will be decided today, when Mr. Donnelly returns from St. Louis.

These Unions, representing thirty of the mechanical trades in the packing plants have decided to quit work if Mr. Donnelly says so and should he give the signal of his return today, the 14,000 men will walk out.

In a fight growing out of the meat packer's strike at the stock yards Sunday afternoon, three men were injured, one fatally. A squad of policemen was called out and quickly suppressed the disturbance after considerable difficulty.

AFTER TWENTY-ONE YEARS.

A Centre County Man's Sad Experience Down in Texas.

David Smith, a veteran of the Civil War who was thought by a number of people to be dead, made his appearance in Bellefonte on Saturday after a lapse of forty years. His arrival was as sudden as if he had risen from the dead. Mr. Smith, who is about 65 or 70 years of age, called upon Clement Dale, Esq., and from his office they went to the office of W. H. Musser where he applied for a pension under strange, and unique circumstances. His story is most interesting and romantic.

When the Civil War broke out he was anxious to go to the front but circumstances over which he had no control forced him to remain at home. The war progressed and every now and then he thought something would turn up that he could go to the front. His parents resided along Spring Creek, not far from Bellefonte, and so he worked on until on the 4th of February, 1865, when he left this part of the country, and went to Williamsport where he enlisted in Co. F, 46 h Regiment, Penna., Vol. He went to the scene of action and served until July 16th of the same year when he was mustered out. Although his war record was short, he proved the making of a brave and valiant soldier. Instead of coming home he went west and in 1867 enlisted in the regular army for three years and served his time out. After leaving the army he and some of his friends went to Texas, thinking that they might strike something to make them rich.

One night while in one of the towns in that State they got into a riot when the sheriff and several deputies were called to quell the disturbance. A number of shots were exchanged when one of the deputies was struck and killed. His companions escaped and Smith was captured and placed behind the bars. He was tried and found guilty, although he had not fired a shot. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for life and served out 21 years, 5 months and 16 days of the sentence when a short time ago one of the men who was in the gang died in the South and on his death-bed confessed that it was he who killed the deputy and not Smith. Governor Landing of Texas, being thoroughly convinced that the confession was correct, pardoned him. On leaving the prison the authorities gave him the amount of money they took from him when he was incarcerated. With this he started home on the train, but when he reached St. Louis he found that his money was all. He was eight hundred miles from his home and the best he could do was to ride on the freight trains as much as he could and walk the rest. Comrade Smith is quite an intelligent man, ordinary height, with gray beard, which is a startling contrast to his youthful appearance when he left Bellefonte to go to the war.

The story told by Comrade Smith is true from the fact that a number of his friends in Centre county knew that he was in prison and were doing all in the power to get him out. Six years ago his brothers, William and Philip Smith, who resided along Spring Creek, were making arrangements to have Clement Dale, Esq., go to Texas and lay before their Governor some evidence they had that their brother was innocently accused, but before the arrangements were completed both of the brothers died within a short time of each other, and the project had to be abandoned. Mr. Smith is now visiting friends who still live up along Spring Creek.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not for a long time bear any solid food in my stomach; felt melancholy and depressed. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. When there is indigestion, loss of appetite, ringing in the ears, dizziness, spots before the eyes or palpitation of the heart; any or all of these symptoms point to weakness and loss of nutrition. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine to turn to.

Boy Shot in the Head.

Joseph, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Williamson, of South Philipsburg, started away from home Thursday with other members of the family to gather huckleberries. They had only gone a short distance when they met George Laws, a young lad, who is here from Pittsburg on a visit. He joined them, and while showing a revolver he had with him, the weapon was accidently discharged, the bullet hitting young Williams in the head. The ball did not penetrate, but fractured the skull and produced a serious wound. He was taken to the hospital, carefully treated, and we learn is getting along nicely.

THOSE LOSSES REDUCED.

Thirty Thousand Shrink to 2800 Japs and 800 Russians.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 15.—2.15 a. m., Friday.)—The people of St. Petersburg retired Thursday night in a happy frame of mind. The absence of a dispatch from Lieutenant General Stoessel, commander of the military forces at Port Arthur, regarding the reported disaster to the Japanese last Sunday night is generally attributed to the delay in communicating official news, owing to the absence of the Emperor.

Private dispatches received in St. Petersburg from Russian sources in the Far East confirm the reports from Mokden and Che Foo. According to a usually reliable source the Japanese losses were 2,800 and the Russian losses eight hundred.

The city remains in a ferment and excitement and extras are eagerly brought up in the hope of finding the long expected dispatch from General Stoessel.

NEWS OF REVERSE CONFIRMED

The rejoicing in the Russian capital is increasing by a foreign dispatch confirming the Japanese reverse. The question eagerly asked if the Russians took advantage of the Japanese discomfiture to follow up the blow and inflict a crushing defeat and possibly the capture of siege guns.

The news that the Vladivostok cruisers and torpedo boats were out again filled the Russian cup of joy to over-flowing.

The retreat from Tinkow and perhaps from Ta Tche Kiao does not weigh in the balance. People who had begun to grumble at General Kuropatkin are inclined under the influence of the news from Port Arthur to take the opposite view, which is also voiced by a trained military expert who says the retreat from Kai Chou was a master-piece in tactics. This expert sees in Kuropatkin's strategy the flawless carrying out of military science, a departure from which would have precipitated disaster.

THEY BLUFFED THE JAPS.

The transfer of General Kuropatkin's staff to Ta Tche Kiao and the appearance of great activity there bluffed the Japanese into devoting all their attention to that quarter, leaving the more valuable line from Liao Yang to Mukden alone.

Even if there be no battle at Ta Tche Kiao or Hai Cheng, the Russians are now looking forward with entire confidence to the concentration of General Kuropatkin's force around Liao Yang which will mark the successful termination of the first stage of his campaign.

With Pick and Shovel Laborer Earned $80,000

Patrick Maley of Harrisburg who died in that city recently could neither read or write, yet he leaves property valued at between $50,000 and $80,000. He owned 26 houses in Harrisburg and Steelton.

Immigrating to this country from Ireland when scarcely 20 years of age, Maley, raw, and illiterate but naturally bright, found himself fitted only for a position as a laborer. He found employment at the Pennsylvania Steel company's plant where until this spring he handled a pick and shovel. For 19 years he had worked on the cinder dumps of the company.

The dead man is survived by two sisters and a brother in Philadelphia, but has no other relatives. He left no will.

Bronchitis for Twenty Years.

Mrs. Minerva Smith, of Danville, Ill., writes: "I had bronchitis for twenty years and never got relief until I used Foley's Honey and Tar which is a sure ure." C. M. Parrish.

Niagara Falls Excursions.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has selected the following dates for its popular ten day excursions to Niagara Falls from Washington and Baltimore; July 8 and 22, August 12 and 26, September 9 and 23, and October 14. On these dates the special train will leave Washington at 8. a. m., Baltimore 9.05 a. m., Williamsport 2.30 p. m., Lock Haven 3.08 p. m., Renovo 3.55 p. m., arriving Niagara Falls at 9.35 p. m.

Excursion tickets, good for return passage on any regular train, exclusive of limited express trains, within ten days, will be sold at $10.00 from Washington and Baltimore; $9.35 from York; $10.00 from Littletown; $10.00 from Oxford, Pa., $9.35 from Columbia; $8.50 from Harrisburg, $10.00 from Winchester, Va.; $7.80 from Altoona; $7.40 from Tyrone, $6.45 from Bellefonte; $5.10 from Ridgway; $6.90 from Sunbury and Wilkesbarre; $5.75 from Williamsport; and at proportionate rates from principal points. A stop-over will be allowed at Buffalo within limit of ticket returning.

An experienced tourist agent and chaperon will accompany each excursion.

For descriptive pamphlet, time of connecting trains, and further information apply to nearest ticket agent, or address Geo. W. Boyd, General Passenger Agent, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

Wife Saw Husband and Niece Drown

Peter Carswell and Marion Cochran, his niece, were drowned in the river at Williamsport Saturday afternoon. Without any indication of trouble the two sank to death within sight of Mr. Carswell's wife and daughter. While trying to teach his niece to swim Mr. Carswell saw his little girl, 8 years, old, coming toward him. Leaving his niece, he placed his daughter on shore. When he got back into deeper water it was to see his niece go beneath the surface and he plunged after her. Neither one arose alive. Both bodies were recovered a short time after.

D. M. Thomas and George Bonner saw Carswell plunge after the girl and believed he would speedily rescue her. When he failed to reappear they rowed out in a a boat to the spot where the man and girl went down. The breaking of an oar delayed their progress and they were too late to save his life.

SECRETARY LOEB'S REPLY.

Why He Would Not Allow the Miners to See Roosevelt.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 14.—Secretary Loeb Wednesday explained why he refused to allow the delegation of miners to go to Sagamore Hill to see President Roosevelt when they came here Tuesday. Mr. Loeb said that there is a rule here that no delegation shall be received by the President unless they have arranged an appointment with the President. This rule has been strictly adhered to during the stay of the President here, and it will be enforced during the remainder of the time the President is here for the summer.

Mr. Loeb said the labor leaders came to Oyster Bay and took him unawares when they demanded to see the President. Had the men announced previously that they would be here Tuesday Mr Loeb says an audience with the President might have been arranged for the delegation, but under the circumstances Mr. Loeb says he could do nothing but refuse to allow them to see the President.

Concerning the visit of the committee Secretary Loeb Wednesday received the following telegram from John E. Barrett, editor of The Truth, of Scranton, Pennsylvania:

"Did President Roosevelt personally refuse to see a committee of miners Tuesday, as reported in this morning's paper?"

SECRETARY LOEB'S REPLY.

In response to this inquiry Secretary Loeb sent to Editor Barrett the following telegram:

"Many thanks for your telegram. The committee came here and insisted on seeing the President to present a petition at a time when I could not arrange it for them. The President did not know they were here. If they had sent word that they desired to see the President I should have been glad to arrange for them at some convenient time. As it was I offered to bring the petition to the personal attention of the President. The statement that the President had any knowledge of the committee's presence in Oyster Bay is not true."

PRESIDENT NOT AT HOME.

It was stated in the Associated Press dispatch Tuesday concerning the visit of the committee that the President did not personally refused to receive them. When the committee called on Secretary Loeb at the executive offices the President was absent temporarily from Sagamore Hill. He was not even within telephone communication of Secretay Loeb, and the members of the committee were so informed.

Weak Hearts

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, the stomach expands—swells, and puffs up against the heart. This crowds the heart and shortens the breath. Rapid heart beats and heart disease is the final result. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, takes the strain off the heart, cures indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, and contributes nourishment, strength and health to every organ of the body. Sold by Greens Pharmacy.

—On Thursday morning June 30th while at work on the operations of the Laurelton Lumber Co., along Penns Creek, Wilmer Long, aged twenty-five years, met his death in a horrible manner. He was engaged with another workman in preparing logs for the mill, when a log lying high up the mountain suddenly started and came crashing down before he could get out of the way, it struck Long and killed him almost instantly.

—The wholesale arrest of a score of men for illegal fishing is the latest sensation reported from Eagleville. A resident of Marsh creek made information against the parties who were taken on the charge of using a scoop net in Marsh creek. They were given a hearing before Squire Keichline in Bellefonte and were found guilty and fined $25 a piece and costs. The arrests were made by County Detective Joseph Rightnour.

No False Claims.

The proprietors of Foley's Honey and Tar do not advertise this as a "sure cure for consumption." They do not claim it will cure this dread complaint in advanced cases, but do positively assert that it will cure in the earlier stage and never fails to give comfort and relief in the worst cases. Foley's Honey and Tar is without doubt the greatest throat and lung remedy. Refuse substitutes. C. M. Parrish.

The North Water Street Walk Completed.

The handsome new concrete walk which the council has laid along North Water street is now complete and a fine piece of work it is. Street Commissioner Shaughnessy has men at work filling in and leveling the street and when this is completed, a street which in the past was an eyesore and disgrace will be transposed into one of the most beautiful thoroughfares our town possesses. Thursday evening many people took advantage of the new pavement and walked down to the Central depot, just for a promenade. The cool breeze from the water made it one of the most desirable places in town.

We have one suggestion however to make, if the council and railroad company will pardon us, and that is that the Central Railroad Company place a substantial bumper of some kind at the end of their track next to the pavement. Unless they do this, some of thesedoys they will back a car in there a little to hard and the result will be that the new concrete walk will be seriously damaged.

Chairman Derstine of the street committee informed us Thursday evening that they expect to go ahead and build the wall along South Water street. The street will be widened near the laundry and a walk and iron railing similar to the one on North Water street will be built.

We feel like congratulating council on this excellent piece of work and when it is all completed it will stand a monument to the present council and the people will rise up and call them blessed long after their bones are mouldering in the dust.

Arrested at Milesburg.

A man was arrested at Milesburg Friday evening on the charge of vagrancy and other crimes. He was given a hearing before Squire John Potter and committed to the County jail being brought to Bellefonte by Detective Joseph Rightnour. A kit of tools were found supposed to be the property of this man. He will be given another hearing on Monday before Squire Potter to answer the other charges against him.

SOME FOOLISH PEOPLE.

Allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They often say, "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it will wear them away. Could be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 25c, and 50c trial size free. At all druggists. tf

Two Bottles Cured Him.

"I was troubled with kidney complaint for about two years," writes A. H. Davis, of Mt. Sterling, Ia., "but two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a permanent cure." C. M. Parrish.

Treat Your Kidneys for Rheumatism

When you are suffering from rheumatism, the kidneys must be attended to at once so that they will eliminate the uric acid from the blood. Foley's Kidney Cure is the most effectice remedy for this purpose. R. T. Hopkins, of Polar, Wis., says, "After unsuccessfully doctoring three years for rheumatism with the best doctor, I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and it cured me. I cannot speak too highly of this great medicine." C. M. Parrish.

WOMEN'S SYMPATHY

Is Proverbial, Bellefonte Women no Exception.

How much we owe to the sympathetic side of womankind. When others suffer they cheerfully lend a helping hand. They tell you the means which brought relief to them that you may profit by their experience. Read the testimony given here by a Bellefonte woman.

Mrs. L. A. Miles of High street says: "I was very much troubled with my back and with rheumatism. My rest was very much broken from nervousness and the kidney secretions embarrassed me when my back was aching badly. I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills by a woman who came 17 miles to get them and she appeared surprised that I was not acquainted with their merits, I immediately went to the Bush Block drug store and got them. Well, they did any amount of good. I was astonished at the result of their use for the pain and lameness soon left me. They also banished the tired feeling I had mornings. I can conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Many are now overheating themselves rushing for a cooler place.

—The weather man has been showing a disposition to do things again.

—Any mad who would attempt to stop the ice wagon ought to be run over.

—It is a safe proposition that Parker and Davis will not get 6 000,000 votes.

—A household necessity. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Heals burns, cuts, wounds of any sore throat, croup, catarrh, asthma never fails.

—The festival the Roosevelt Club were to have had next Saturday evening has been postponed until Saturday July 30th. The boys say it is going to be all O. K.

—Ambrose Ray is undergoing treatment in the Bellefonte Hospital for an infected foot. He hopes to be around again in a few days but in the meantime his upholstering shop on Howard street is closed.

—New York is fortunate this trip in presidential candidates. If they do not like Roosevelt, they can vote for Parker, and if Parker fails to suit, there is Chas. H Gorregan who has been nominated by the Socialist—Labor party.

—Some of our local Democrats says one of our southern exchanges—the admirers of W. S. Bryan—are not pleased with and say they will not vote for Parker and Davis. "The Democrats have been howling against trusts for years and now they put the king bee of the trust element on the tail end of their ticket," says one of the Democrats

—At the council meeting Monday night the Logan Fire Company asked permission to hold a street carnival. It was referred to the proper committee with power to act. Wm. Rankin, Thad Longwell and others asked for better fire protection on East Curtin street. John Noll was authorized to contract for the stone and commence work at once on the South Water street wall. The members present were Jenkins, Fenlon, Keller, Wilie, Seibert, Dr. Kirk and Keichline.

—Total abstinence pledges, prohibition laws, the exhibition of "horrible examples" and the preaching of intemperance as a sin may have had a certain amount of influence in deterring men from drinking, but the social sentiment against intemperance as an imprudence which has grown up during the last generation has accomplished far more. Drunkenness has become disreputable or is looked on as a deplorable disease. People are more sensible. The strain of modern social conditions, it has been found, compels sobriety. The drunkard cannot keep up the pace and falls behind those who hold their appetites in restraint.

Death of a Former Citizen of the County.

Benjamin Liggett, a former of Blanchard, died in Arizona last Thursday. He went to Arizona last fall to look after and develop some claims. Prior to that for several years he made his home with his son John in Kansas City. He was aged 72 years and was buried in Kansas City.

Benjamin Liggett was born in Howard township, now Liberty, near Eagleville, his father owning in 1832 what is now the Crider farm. He was in early life engaged in the mercantile business at Beech Creek. In 1873 he went west locating first in Ohio, later in Kansas and for the past year had boen looking after his business interests in Tucson, Arizona. He is survived by his brother John of Beech Creek and one sister, Mrs. Gray of Half Moon. Centre county. Benjamin Liggett was twice married, neither wife surviving and is the father of seven children.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Little Five Year Old McKinley Heaton Struck by an Engine.

A very sad accident occurred Tuesday afternoon on the Nittany Valley siding leading to the Nittany Furnace. Engine No. 1 from the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania in charge of Engineer William T. Royer was going down to the Nittany furnace for some empty cars and when near the school house at the forge and at a point where the bank is quite steep, two little boys were playing. They did not hear the approaching engine until it was almost upon them. One of them succeeded in getting off the track, but the other McKinley Heaton, the five year old son of Emory Heaton, was struck and knocked from the track inflicting serious and probably fatal injuries. As we go to press he is still living but has never regained consciousness since he was struck by the engine. He has a fracture at the base of the skull, is considerably bruised about the body and is probably injured internally. His chances of recovery are therefore not very bright.

After the accident he was taken to the home of his parents at Winona. At the point where the accident occurred there is a sharp curve in the road and the engineer could not see the boy until he was almost upon him. He made every effort to stop his engine but could not do so in time to avoid the accident. No blame can be attached to the engineer or crew as it was purely accidental.

A Card of Thanks.

Rev. James P. Hughes and Mr. James R. Hughes wish through the columns of the Republican to express their most sincere thanks to the firemen and citizens of the town for the prompt and willing way in which they responded to the fire alarm and the hard and successful efforts they put forth at the Academy fire Tuesday morning.

A Former Centre County Lady Died in Salina Kan.

We are in receipt of a Kansas paper which gives an account of the death of a former well known Centre County lady. It is as follows;

Mrs. Susan Struble died Thursday morning July 14 at ten minutes to 10 o'clock at the home of her son, Harry Struble on North Fifth street. In this death Salina has lost another of her old residents. Mrs. Struble with her husband Josiah Struble and children came to Saline county in 1879 purchasing what has since been known as the Struble farm, five miles southwest of Salina. In 1889 they retired from the farm and moved to the city.

Her death was caused by a paraletic stroke which she suffered two years ago. Since that time she was rendered a cripple and since last winter had not been able to leave the house.

Two years of suffering this good woman bore patiently, concealing her trials beneath smiles and greetings of welcome to those who came to see her. She became early a member of the Christian faith, a faith which until her death was ever her standard. She became bedfast slightly over a week ago and since that time her decline has been gradual. She had been unconscious some time before the end. Death came very peacefully.

Susan Lose was born in Pennsylvania January 24 1831. In 1850 she was married to Josiah Struble. She leaves to mourn their lossbesides her husband, three children. Mrs. Ellen Gentzel of Bellefonte, Pa., and George and Harry Struble of Salina. She is also survived by eleven grand-children and six great-grand children.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of her son, Harry Struble 241 North Fifth street. Interment was made in Gypsum Hill cemetery.

R. C. Eldred's Tragic Fate.

Robert C. Eldred, of near Mackeyville, was accidentally thrown from a load of grain last Saturday about 5:30 o'clock and suddenly killed. He is survived by two sons, George B., of Altoona, and LeRoy C., who is married and occupies the homestead farm and with whom Mr. Eldred has been living, his wife having died a couple of years ago in Altoona.

Mr. Eldred and his son LeRoy were hauling wheat from the field to the barn The unfortunate man was standing on the top of the load on the front part of the wagon, driving. His son walked across the fields and reached the barn just behind his father and the team. The barn is what is known as a flat barn. Wagons are driven in one side and out the other. Just as the wagon struck the barn floor on entering the barn the front part of the load gave way and Mr. Eldred was drawn with it down on the horses. Thus the reins of the horses were slackened and they started through the barn floor and out on the opposide side. He in the meantime succeeded in keeping himself from falling to the ground. Mr. Eldred's son quickly taking in the situation rushed to the opposite side of the barn and checked the team, which he met just passing through a gateway, but he was possibly a second too late, for the father had fallen to the ground and the front wheel had passed over his head and left arm crushing both badly and killing the unfortunate man instantly.

Mrs. Daniel Kane Killed.

On Friday Mrs. Maggie Brown of Pittsburg who was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Brown on South Spring street received the sad intelligence that her mother Mrs. Daniel Kane was killed that morning and that she should hasten home. Mrs. Kane's maiden name was Miss Ellen Farley, and at one time was a resident of Bellefonte. It is supposed this good lady was killed by the trolley car. She was buried Monday morning in Pittsburg.

Our Splendid Water Supply.

Supt. Samuel Ryan is authority for the statement that Bellefonte need have no fear of lack of water protection in case of fire. Tuesday morning's fire at the Academy broke out at 7:00 o'clock and at that time there was 23 feet of water in the reservoir. At 8:30 o'clock when the fire was under control there was 23 feet 4 inches in the reservoir. And the pumps could do even better than that if necessary. At this rate they could fight fire steadily for 24 hours and still have a good supply of water on hand.

Six Cars go Over the Snow Shoe Mountain.

"Nobody killed in the Snow Shoe wreck," was the report that came to Bellefonte Saturday evening, but what a wonderful miracle it was that the entire crew were not wiped out of existence.

When the local freight was coming down the mountain from Snow Shoe with six cars heavily ladened with coal, four eighty thousands and two one hundred thousand capacity a flange on one of wheels broke at number 4 switch, and the six cars toppled over the mountain.

Bod Lucas, the flagman, was on top of one of the steel cars and when he saw the danger he jumped a distance of 30 feet over the mountain and was badly hurt.

Scott Walker, a young brakeman, was thrown a distance of 40 feet and completely covered with coal and when dug from under the fuel it was found he was not hurt at all.

The balance of the crew on this train are J. G. Lucas, conductor, Davy Irwin, engineer, and Artie Hull, fireman. Traffic on the road was delayed for sometime.

State Officers Inspect Trees.

State Economic Zoologist Surface and Mr. I. C. Williams of the State Department of Forestry, examined some trees of this section last Friday for insect pests. First they inspected the oak forests on Tussey mountain, going in the direction of Tyrone. They found that the foliage of these trees had been in many cases entirely eaten up by caterpillars. Trees thus infested were putting out new leaves as though at the beginning of another season. It is evident that if the caterpiller pest became widespread many trees could make no growth and would be an appreciable loss, for forest-making is uphill work in this State.

Another part of these gentlemen's business was the examination of Colonel Reynold's peach orchard near Bellefonte, for San Jose scale. They found the orchard, which is the largest of its kind in Centre county, to be uninfected.

Prof. Surface says that the fact that San Jose scale is not present in Centre county orchards ought to be gratifying news to our farmers. This county is one of the five or six in the State where the scale has not appeared. He invites those who suspect the presence of the insect in their trees to send twigs of such trees for examination either to his office in Harrisburg or to State College. He will gladly assist in putting the pest out of the way.

An Automobile Party.

A party of newspaper men traveling under the auspices of the Automobile Club of America were guests over Tuesday night at the Bush House. The party composed of Percy F. Megargel, W. F. Harrison and Ralph M. Megargel left New York city on May 28th enroute to St. Louis and now are on their way back to the metropolis. The object of their trip is to lay out a road and make a map of it for the benefit of future touring parties. They are traveling in the automobile "Pathfinder" made by the Elmore Mfg. Company of Clyde, Ohio, and will reach New York on Tuesday night. Their trip has been an unusually successful one and they have had a very few punctures to their tires. They met with considerable bad weather however it raining 23 out of 25 days.

A Timely Word.

The weaker the system, the more enervating the heat and the greater the danger of prostration.

This is a truism—a proposition needing no argument.

A word in favor of the systemic effects of Hood's Sarsaparilla is timely—it is a fact that this peculiar medicine strengthens and tones all the organs and functions and building up the whole system.

We believe you will do well to take Hood's during the heated period.
